Subject: Furlough Case Hearing

Today the Law Firm of Carroll Burdick and McDonough, working on behalf of CCPOA and the members of Bargaining Unit 6, argued our position in our furlough case in Alameda County Superior Court. CCPOA maintains that failing to pay our members for time worked in exchange for furlough days under the State's furlough program is a clear violation of the law. The oral argument lasted for one and a half hours with the Judge asking good questions and our side driving home our points.

The Judge has taken the matter under submission and will rule in a written opinion. CCPOA will immediately post any Court ruling as soon as we get it.
